Lecture

Wieki Somers is a graduate of the Design Academy Eindhoven, whose inventive work draws upon memory and invention. This year's lecture will be given by Aaron Betsky, an architect, critic, curator, and writer on architecture and design, who since August 2006 has been the director of the Cincinnati Art Museum. Betsky is the editor of "False Flat: Why Dutch Design is So Good." He will speak on the importance of interpretation and invention in Somer's more recent work. Lecture sponsored by Lekker Home Furnishings, and the Massachusetts Cultural Council.
